

2nd Edition—Hot Off The Press! Updated—Revised —Large Print

Surviving Not Driving: A Transportation “How To” Guide For Older Americans

Answers a senior’s most vexing question “How can I continue to get out and about after I retire from driving?” Guidebook is “written for seniors, by seniors”—in clear, everyday language and LARGE PRINT.

Of interest to seniors and elders and their families, caregivers, helping professionals, transportation providers, and anyone who works with seniors, this “first-of-its-kind” guidebook, educates, motivates, and frankly inspires seniors to continue getting out and about, allowing them to stay active and independent as they age.

This ground-breaking publication helps seniors understand their own travel ability, shows how to determine what transportation options are appropriate, how and where to find them, and how to travel out-of-home safely and comfortably—enhancing their freedom, independence, and dignity.

Available exclusively through our web site

<http://www.SurvivingNotDriving.org>, the 2nd Edition of our Guide is in stock now, ready for immediate shipment, and may be purchased using a credit card, debit card, PayPal, check, or money order. Purchase orders accepted. See web site for details.

Please forward a copy of this e-mail to any colleagues and friends who might be interested in this timely new publication. Thank you.
Family-Centered Institute, Inc.

Note: Meet co-authors, Alice and Warren Smith at the American Society on Aging (ASA) 2012 Conference in Washington, DC, March 28 – April 1, 2012, at the Marriott Wardman Park—Omni Shoreham hotels, Authors’ Session: Housing, Accessibility and Technology; A Senior-Friendly Transportation Environment: Community-Wide Needs and Solutions

<http://www.asaging.org/sites/default/files/files/2012AiA-Conf-Announcement.pdf>